

BRIGHT COFFEE SHOP ANALYSIS

Presented by Mmakwena Mohoatseleng

Introduction

The Bright Coffee Shop Sales Analysis was conducted to provide data-driven insights that will help the new CEO increase revenue, identify high-performing products, and improve overall business performance. The analysis used historical transaction data to evaluate sales patterns, product performance, and customer purchasing behavior.

REVENUE

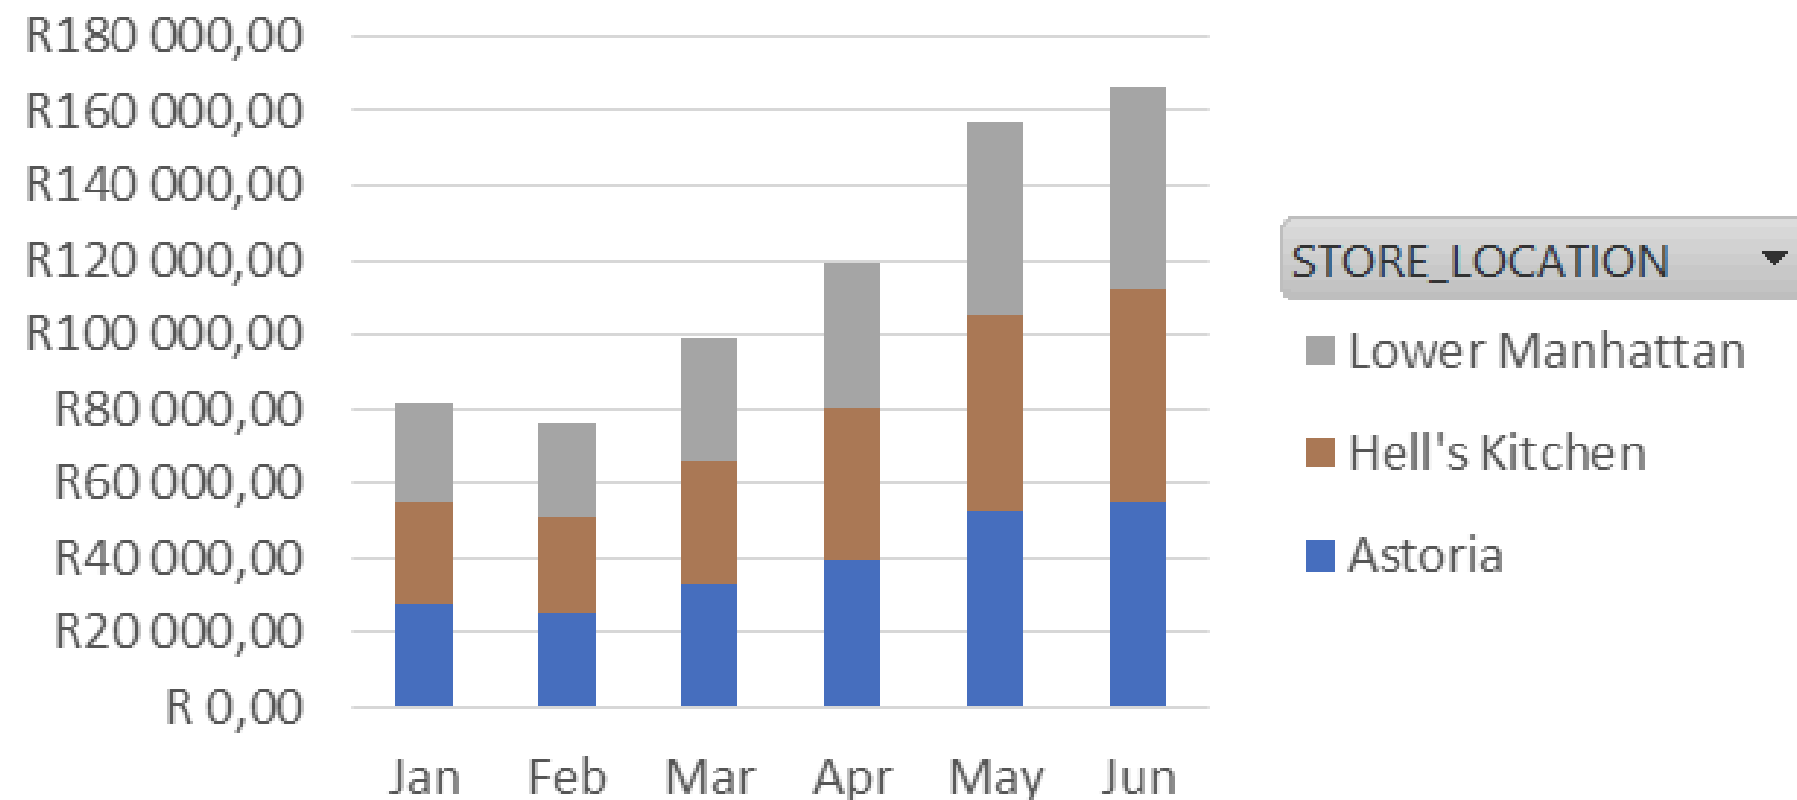

Analysis by Store Location

- Total revenue R 698 812
- Total transactions 149 116
- Hell's Kitchen contributes more sales by 34% of total sales
- Astoria and Lower Manhattan contributes same % of the sales which is 33%

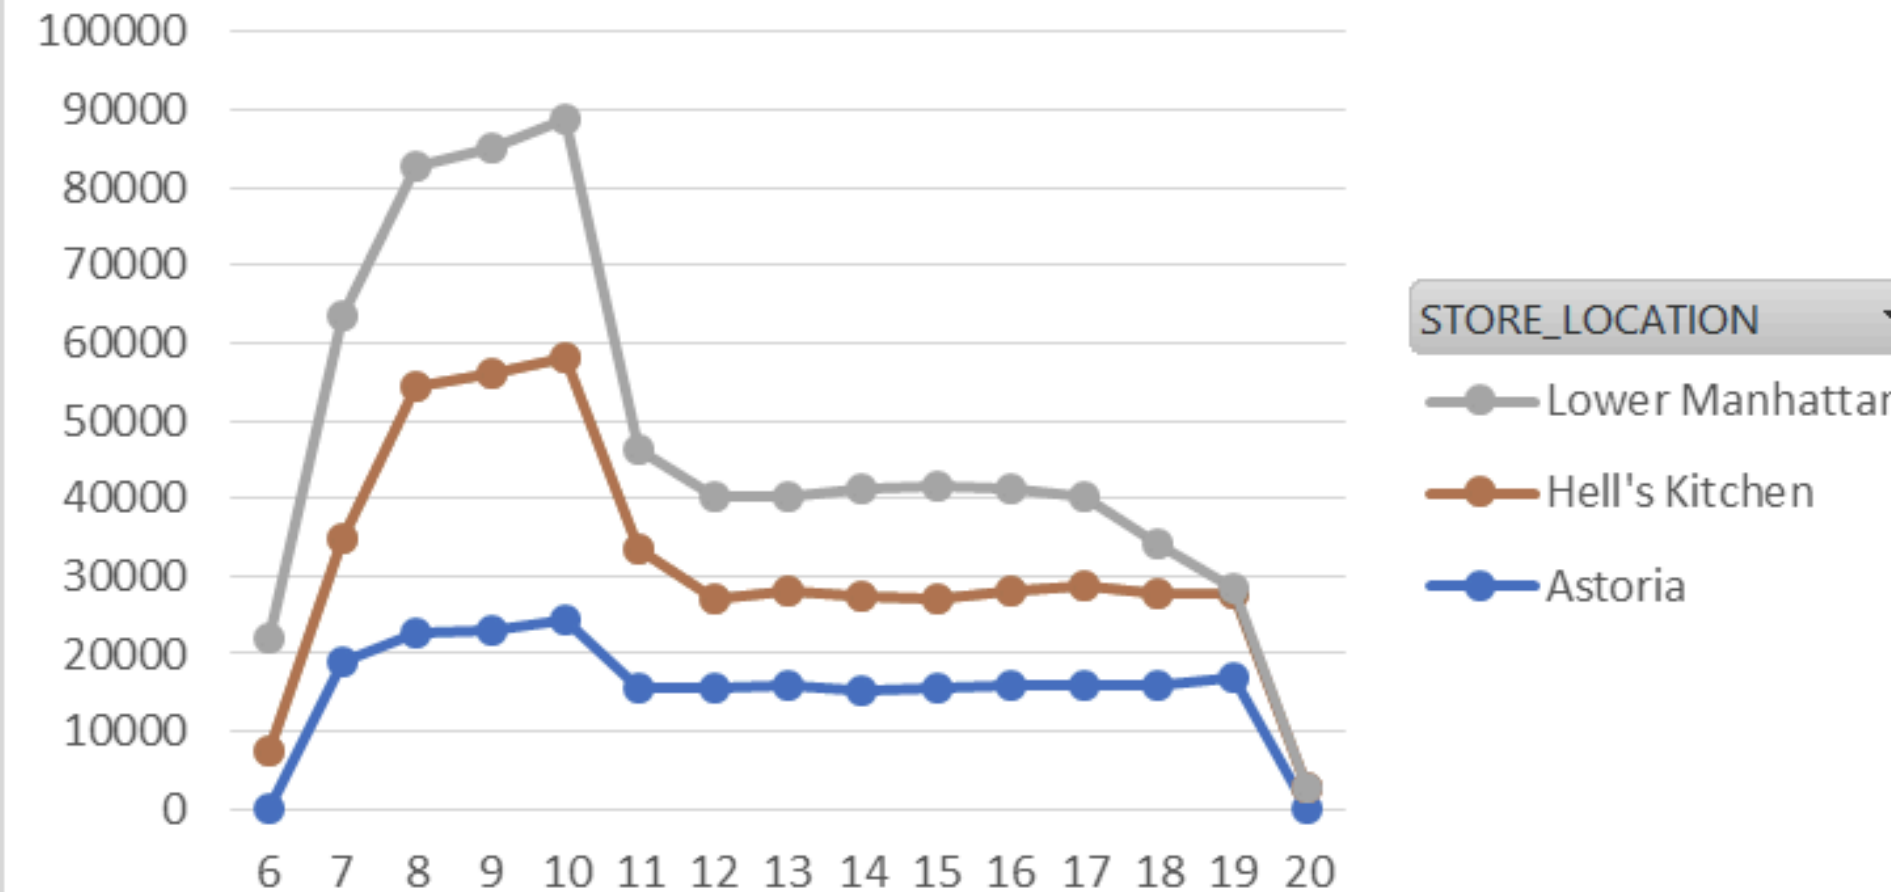

Analysis by month and day of the week per location

Total sales by store location

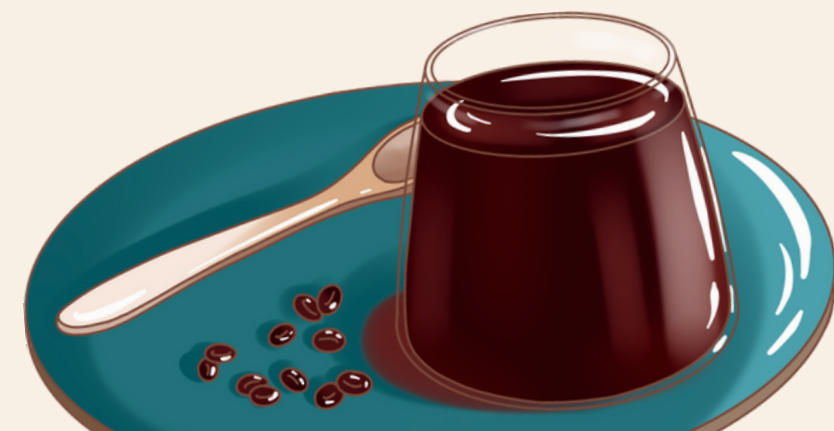

MONTH_NAME

Sum of REVENUE

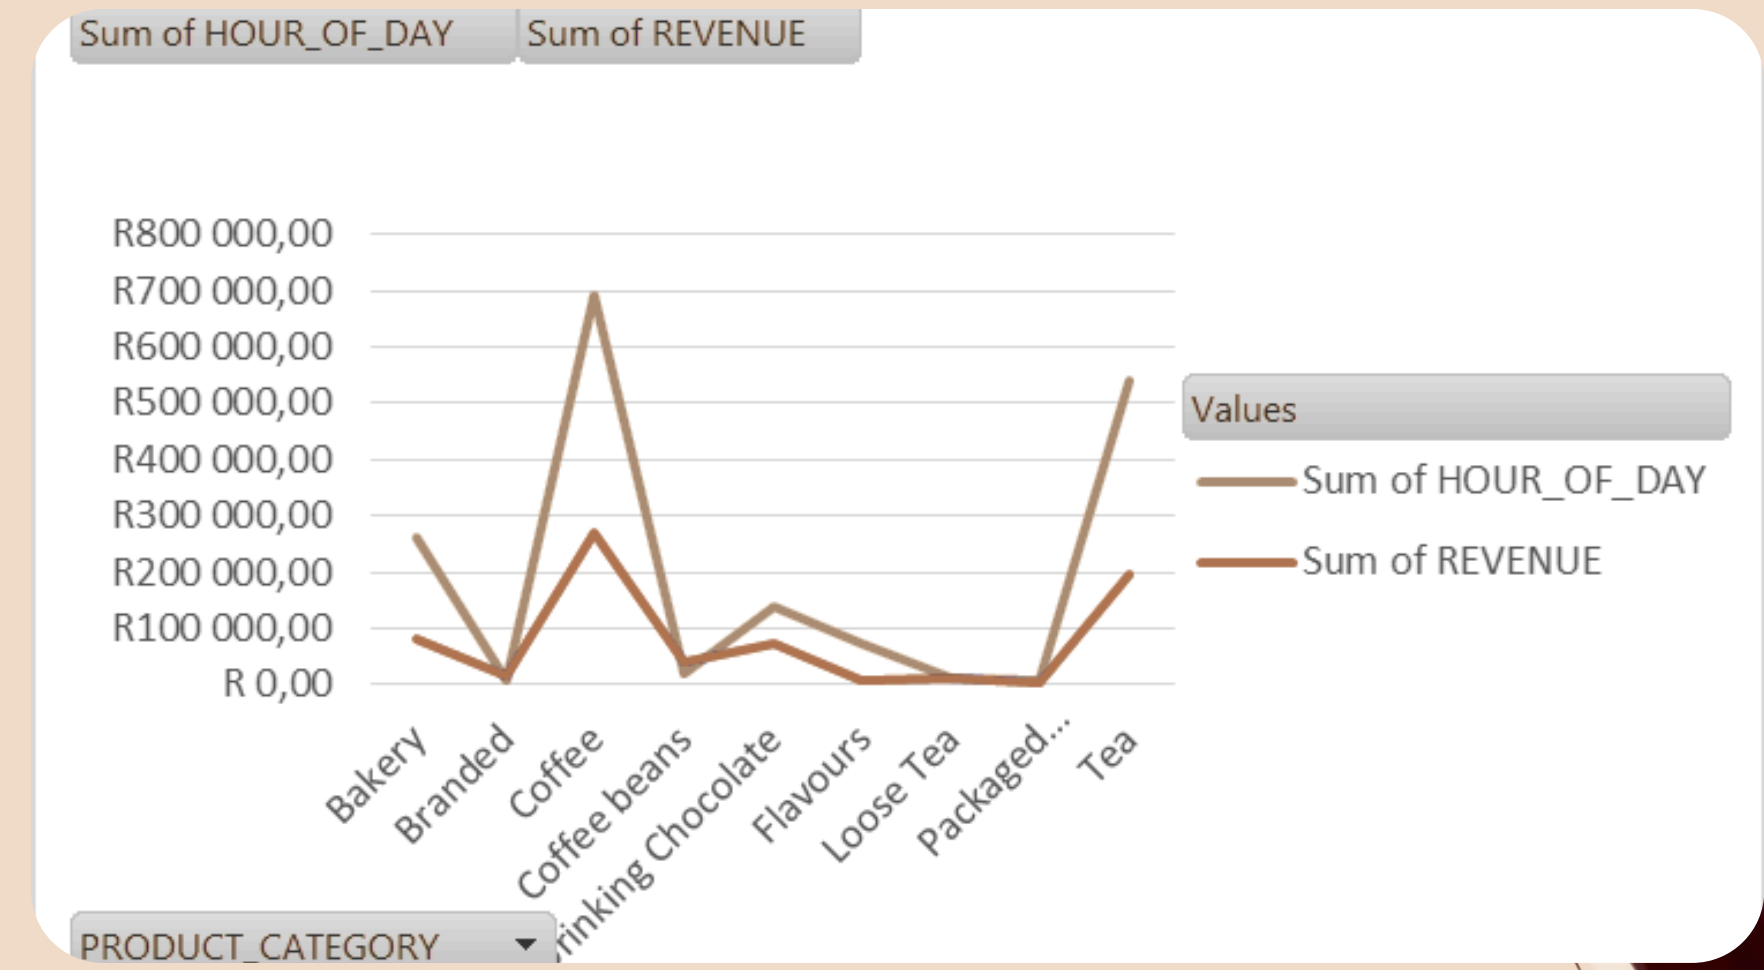

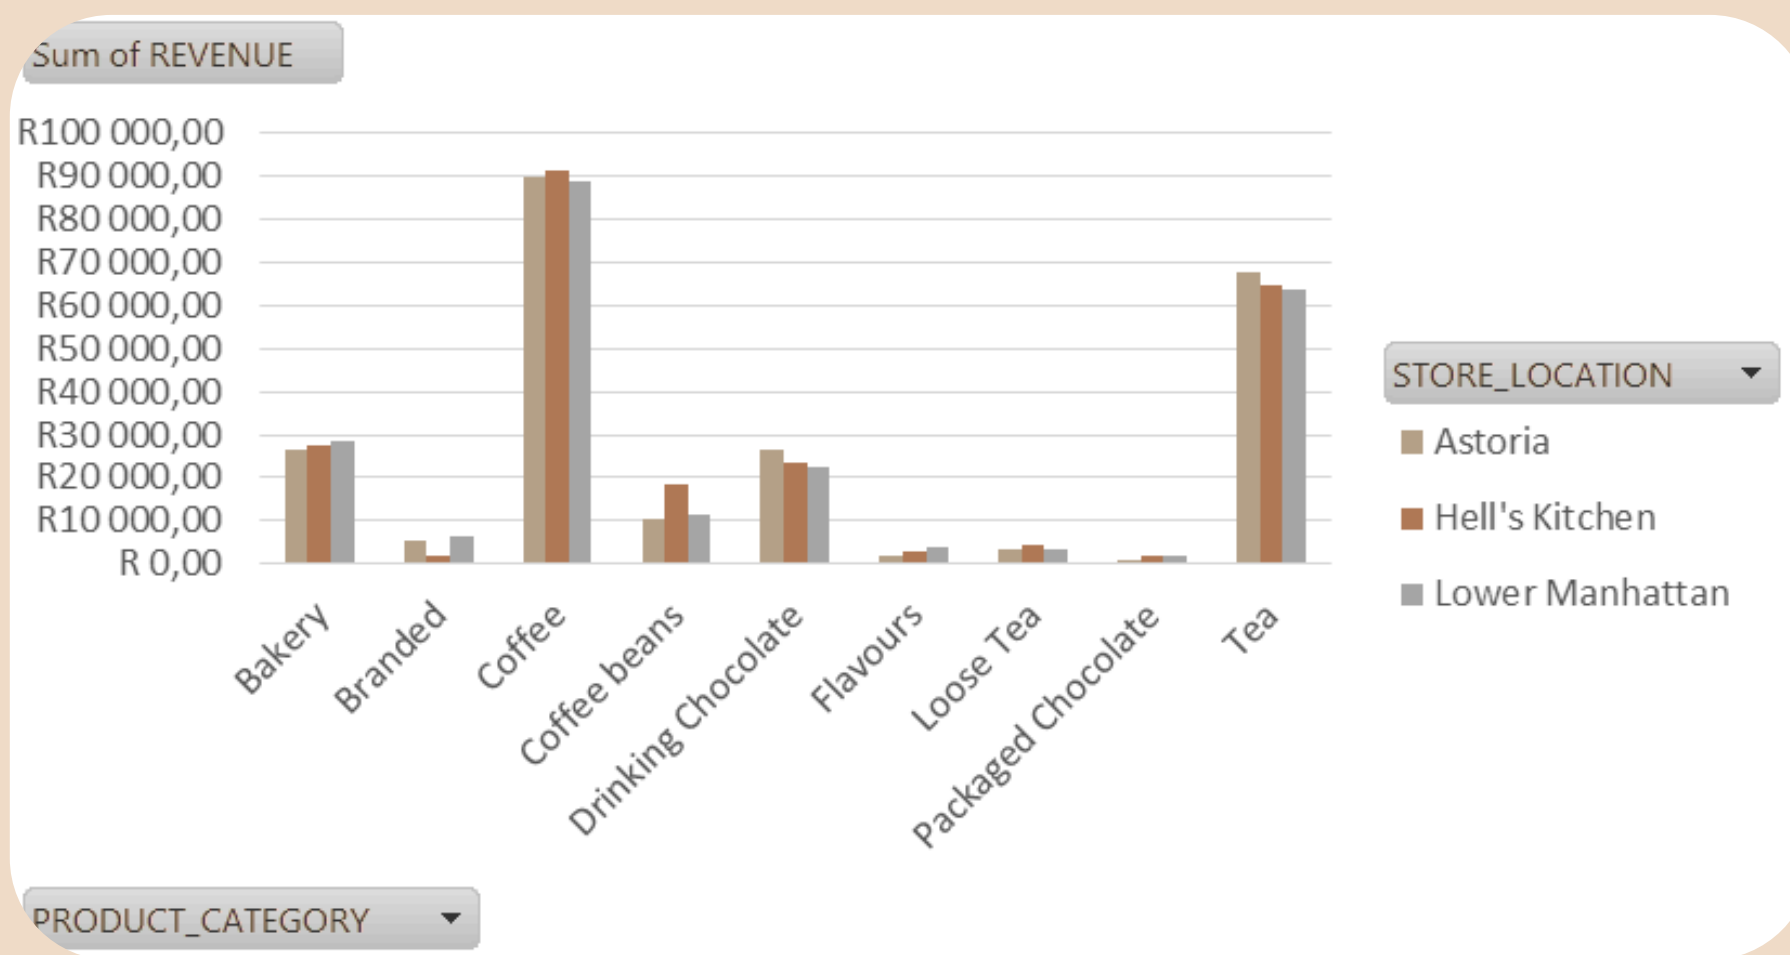

HOUR_OF_DAY

- Revenue increases consistently from January to June.
- Hell's Kitchen contribute most revenue every month.
- In the morning (06:00 am to 11:59 am) the shops are making more profit then afternoon and evening

Product Categories Breakdown

- Coffee leads by R269 952,45 in total revenue
- Packaged Chocolate contributes less in all the products by R4 407,64

DATA OVERVIEW

Top Revenue Products:

Coffee beverages and espresso drinks are the main revenue drivers.

Peak Sales Periods:

Most transactions occur during morning hours (6 AM – 11 AM) and lunchtime (12 PM – 2 PM).

Trends Over Time:

Weekdays consistently outperform weekends in sales volume, indicating strong commuter demand.

Low-Performing Items:

Certain pastries and cold beverages show lower sales and may benefit from promotional strategies.

Overall Performance:

Sales patterns reveal predictable peaks, suggesting potential for targeted marketing and inventory optimization.

Conclusion

- The Bright Coffee Shop analysis highlights clear opportunities for growth through optimized inventory, targeted marketing, and data-driven decision-making. By focusing on peak times, high-revenue products, and underperforming categories, the business can maximize sales efficiency and enhance customer satisfaction.

www.reallygreatsite.com

THANK YOU

